Fukushima Scent Link Project

Now Open to applicants!

Interested in rebranding Fukushima with scents
with the aroma experts?

If people in Japan and around the world could only see Fukushima for its beauty....

What if we can share our message through scents?

If you care deeply for Fukushima, now is a great time to join us, the global leaders in scent marketing, in a scent branding project of Fukushima. You'll learn and experience the concept of "branding" with scents.

For this project, we are looking for applicants who can help us lead the project.

ABOUT PROJECT

- Overview -

Air Aroma will share its expertise in scent marketing cultivated through its worldwide business. This project is intended to shine a light on the beautiful aspects of Fukushima that have all but been forgotten following the nuclear plant accident. Participants in the workshops and meetings will come together to think about Fukushima's future and create a compelling message using scents, to share with the world.

ABOUT AIR AROMA

Air/Aroma

Air Aroma is an Australian company that has produced scent branding experiences for global brands including hotels, retail, and medical institutions in over eighty countries.

The company has a wide range of projects under its belt including the branding of regions in Japan utilizing scents that are unique to the area. Branding projects have involved the cities of Hagi (Yamaguchi Natsumikan Citrus), Hirosaki (Aomori Hiba), and Kure (Hiroshima Lemon), whereby natural essences are extracted from local fruit and trees and blended at the hands of a global perfumer. These original scents have allowed people to experience the fragrances of the region in any space of their choosing.

Currently, the company has a satellite office in a herb farm in Minamiaizu, Fukushima. The staff frequents the region with the hopes of expanding the excitement and anticipation of the Fukushima community to a wider population.
